Targeted region: Sistan and Baluchestan Province

Sistan and Baluchestan is the second largest province of Iran in the south-east of Iran bordering Pakistan and Afghanistan. Sistan and Baluchistan is the only Iranian province where the rural population (>1.4 million) exceeds the urban (~1.3 million). More than half of the population live under the absolute poverty line. Most families do not have access to drinking water, electricity and gas, and many houses do not have kitchens and toilets.

Every year in the month of Ramadan, people at Imam Ali Popular Student Relief Society (IAPSRS) host a program in marginalized and rural regions called *Kucheh Gardan-e Ashegh*¹, in which they identify families who are vulnerable to food insecurity. After doing initial assessments and documenting all information, they support family to meet basic needs such as food.

This year, Niiky foundation partnered with IAPSRS to provide one month's worth of food bags for families in rural regions of Sistan and Baluchestan.

In our first fundraising event, in April 2022, we have raised $3,980.87² for this food donation project, which covered 166 food bags for families in need.
